AESTHETICS	A tremendously silky, oily, light-shaded torpedo with almost no veins.	The flawless, natural wrapper has a light caramel color and few seams.	A silky smooth pyramid; seeing it makes me want to grab my lighter!	This sexy blonde is creamy in color, with a satiny, peach-fuzz texture.
CONSTRUCTION	A superb draw from start to finish; it smoked cool on the palate. The exquisite gray ash held on for inches.	A perfectly rolled belicoso, packed densely, that burned uniformly all the way down to my fingers.	A bit on the spongy side, but well-rolled, it offers an effortless draw and a unique, zebra-striped ash.	The cigar is solidly rolled all the way. It has a perfect draw and forms a dark gray ash. Very seductive aroma.
FLAVOR AND STRENGTH	Mild in taste, but not at all flavorless. The wonderful earthy flavor will bring a connoisseur back for more.	The first third was sweet, creamy and toasty; then it gained strength and flavor complexity as it burned.	It's mild, but not bland: unobtrusive hints of earth, leather, and toasted wood build to a gentle spiciness.	The cigar is bready, nutty, and peppery, with sweet woody notes and a peppery finish bordering on harsh.
GENERAL COMMENTS	This is the first cigar I've appreciated more with a Guinness than a fine bourbon. Bring more of these on! 9.6 SUPERIOR	It's not a powerhouse, but would earn a regular spot in the rotation, even for a maduro man like myself. 9.3 EXCELLENT	The flavors remain consistent and never overpower. This would be ideal with coffee, or right before dinner. 8.5 GOOD	Starting out dry and improving by the end, this one reminded me of a Cuban with some young tobacco. 9.0 VERY GOOD
